Your plan: summary

Printed 24 Oct 2026 · Baseline · a fictional example household

In short

- Each month: £44 left over each month, after saving £75.
- Debt-free: Debt-free at 56, before you retire.
- Retirement: Spending £1,480 a month (what you spend now) from 67, your money would last beyond 95.

Each month

Take-home pay	£3,247
Spending	−£1,480
Mortgage and debts	−£1,648
Regular savings	−£75
Left over	£44

Debt-free

Mortgage-free	Age 56 (2044)
Student loan	Repaid at 56
Other debts cleared	Age 41 (2029)

Retirement at 67, in today's money

Money lasts to at £1,480 a month	95+
Could spend in retirement to 95	£3,810 a month
Savings and pensions at 67 on course to have	£829k
Needed by 67 to last to 95	£177k

Top actions

1. Clear Credit card (sample) first — saves £16 interest; £50 a month less left over now
2. Higher-rate pension relief — +£36 a month in retirement; £84 a month less left over now
3. Use your ISA allowance — +£5 a month in retirement; £40 a month less left over now

Key assumptions

Inflation (CPI) default, set 23 Oct 2026	2.5%
Salary growth default, set 23 Oct 2026	3%
Spending growth default, set 23 Oct 2026	2.5%
House price growth default, set 23 Oct 2026	3%
Savings interest rate default, set 23 Oct 2026	3.5%
Investment return (before fees) default, set 23 Oct 2026	5% (4.6% after fees)
Pension growth (before fees) default, set 23 Oct 2026	5% (4.5% after fees)
Retirement age default, set 23 Oct 2026	67
State Pension (today's money) default, set 23 Oct 2026	£12,548 a year from 67
Tax thresholds in future years default, set 23 Oct 2026	Stay frozen at today's levels
Tax rules checked 23 Oct 2026	2026/27 (UK and Scotland)

Planning illustration only — not financial advice. Results depend on the assumptions you set, and projections are not guaranteed. Figures are estimates based on your inputs and the assumptions you can see and change. Investments can fall as well as rise. Consider speaking to a regulated financial adviser before making decisions.

Figures five or more years ahead are rounded. Made with the UK finance planner; your figures stay in your browser.